RENT PAYMENT PROTECTION

Residential Tenancy Act 1997 (Tas) — general tenancy record-keeping

TAS —
Magistrates
Court

Your defence against a wrong or exaggerated arrears allegation

WHEN TO USE THIS BUNDLE

Use this bundle continuously throughout your tenancy to maintain a real-time rent payment record, and specifically whenever an arrears allegation is made.

KNOW THE LAW — KEEPING YOUR OWN PAYMENT LEDGER

Rent arrears is the fastest path to a termination notice. Your own payment ledger, kept in real time with bank references, is the defence against a wrong or exaggerated allegation — and protects you if a termination notice citing arrears turns out to be based on the owner's own record-keeping error.

HOW THE SYSTEM WORKS — YOUR ESCALATION PATH

The highlighted box shows where this bundle fits in the journey.

- 01 Log every payment the day it is made
Due date, date paid, amount, method, and bank reference.
- 02 Never pay cash without a receipt
Request a receipt for any in-person payment — s.21 requires this.
- 03 Export bank confirmations monthly
Keep a running, backed-up record independent of any owner portal.
- 04 Respond immediately to any arrears allegation
Answer in writing with your ledger — never from memory.
- 05 Check any termination notice citing arrears
If arrears are disputed, use Bundle 12 to check the notice's validity.

IF YOU NEED TO ESCALATE — WHAT MAGISTRATES COURT CAN ORDER

A complete, dated ledger with bank references is often sufficient on its own to resolve an arrears dispute, without needing to escalate to the Magistrates Court.

★ GOOD TO KNOW — REQUEST YOUR PAYMENT RECORD ANYTIME

You can request your rent payment record from the owner or agent at any time — do this periodically to cross-check your own ledger.

■ CRITICAL — YOUR OWN LEDGER IS YOUR STRONGEST EVIDENCE

Never rely on memory or an owner's portal alone — keep your own independent, dated payment ledger with bank references.
